ESSENTIAL OILS

Essential oils are natural plant extracts that have been used for centuries for their various therapeutic and medicinal benefits. These oils are extracted from different parts of the plant, such as the leaves, flowers, stems, bark, or roots, through various methods such as steam distillation, cold pressing, or solvent extraction. Essential oils are highly concentrated and contain the natural aromatic compounds of the plant, which give them their unique and powerful properties. These oils are used in aromatherapy, skin care, personal care products, and household cleaning products, among others. At RV International. Pvt. Ltd.

CARRIER OIL

Carrier and vegetable oils are natural plant-based oils that are commonly used in skin care, aromatherapy, and massage. They are derived from the fatty portions of plants, such as seeds, nuts, and kernels, through various methods such as cold pressing or solvent extraction. Carrier oils are used to dilute and "carry" essential oils, which are highly concentrated and should not be used directly on the skin. They also have their own therapeutic benefits, such as moisturizing, nourishing, and protecting the skin. Some common carrier oils include sweet almond oil, jojoba oil, grapeseed oil, and coconut oil. At RV International Pvt.ltd.

HYDROSOLS

Hydrosols, also known as hydrolats, floral waters, or plant waters, are the byproduct of the steam distillation process used to extract essential oils from plants. During the distillation process, steam is passed through plant material, which releases essential oil and water-soluble plant components. The resulting mixture of water and essential oil is then cooled and separated, with the essential oil floating on top and the water-based portion collected as the hydrosol. Hydrosols have a unique aroma and are less concentrated than essential oils. They can be used for a variety of purposes, including skin care, aromatherapy, cooking, and cleaning. Hydrosols are also considered safer and gentler than essential oils, making them a popular alternative for individuals who are sensitive to essential oils or prefer a milder product. Hydrosols should also be stored in a cool, dark place and used within six months to a year to ensure maximum freshness and effectiveness.

FRAGRANCE OIL

Natural extracts from flowers and their components are known as natural flower oils. Steam distillation is the method used to extract these fragrant liquids from flowers. The true essence of the parent flower plant is contained in flower oils. They have endearing and energizing scents that serve a variety of functions. Because of their healing qualities, these organic flower oils are also said to be utilized in traditional Unani and Ayurvedic treatments. Natural floral oils have a sweet, reviving scent that revitalizes the body, mind, and spirit. They are used to treat anxiety, emotional stress, and high blood pressure. They also have antidepressant properties.
